With support for streaming services, voice assistants and automatic software updates, it's electronics designed to tailor powerful, immersive sound to each user's unique preferences.

Inside is a Sabre 9018K2M digital-to-analogue converter (DAC) with ESS Technology's 32-bit HyperStream architecture, which allows the WiiM to deliver an absolutely stunning mix of distortion, dynamic range, signal-to-noise ratio and ultra-precise clock synchronisation and an optimised power supply design. In addition, a TI Burr-Brown PCM1861 analogue-to-digital converter (ADC) brings content from a wide range of analogue sources into the digital domain with sensational performance.

Finally, the WiiM CI MOD A80 can be controlled from the superb WiiM Hope App or from the apps of both Chromecast and Chromecast-related online music platforms, and is compatible with multi-room streaming and popular home automation systems
