Whether you're a shredder or an acoustic musician, the rhythm guitar of a band or the soloist of a symphony, D'Addario creates the tools that make your musical instrument perform at a higher level. Although the D'Addario family has been in the business of making instrument strings since the 17th century, the company has expanded into all forms of music - from wind instruments to percussion, from orchestra to all fretted instruments. Unlimited curiosity and pioneering spirit continue to fuel the belief that there is always a better sound, a better product, which allows you to take your music and instrument to exciting, unexpected and extraordinary places.
